

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A CAD generation management system is provided with a storage section to store file information in units of generations, an inter-file
5 correspondence table to store corresponding relationships of the file information stored in the storage, including generation information, an icon storage to store icon data corresponding to the file information, and a unit to display relationships of 10 the file information corresponding to the icon data by referring to the inter-file correspondence table and the icon storage and displaying the icon data of the file information stored in the storage section in units of generations.

15

20

25

30

35